BIOGRAFIA

Zephiro is an Italian new wave band born in Rome. After some line up and genres changes, in 2012 they reached the current line-up: Claudio Desideri as lead singer and bass guitar, Claudio Todesco as guitar/backing vocals and Leonardo Sentinelli on acoustic drums and electronic pads. A very intensive background made of more than 300 gigs. In 2006 they published their first album "Immagina un giorno" which was premiered in Rome at Messagerie Musicali. They shared the stage with very important artists such as Carl Palmer, Diaframma, Assalti Frontali, Radici nel Cemento, Riccardo Sinigaglia, Daniele Groff and performed twice at "Centrale del Tennis" in Rome. They won contests such as Un palco per il M.E.I. – Kataweb, Rock Targato Italia and Videopfestival live. From 2007 their songs have been on air on Radio Uno, Radio Due, Radio DeeJay and Radio Rock. Between 2009 and 2013 they focused their efforts almost exclusively abroad. In May 2009 they undertook their first "Japan tour" where they performed 6 gigs in Tokyo. Between April and June 2010 they performed 37 dates in Tokyo, Yokohama, Osaka and Kawasaki for the "Zephiro Japan Tour 2010". In September 2011 they flew to U.S. and performed 3 gigs in the Big Apple for the "Zephiro New York Tour". In June 2012 they released "Kawaita me", a 5 track EP including 2 songs in Japanese. In March/April 2014 they returned to the land of Japan to perform 9 gigs for the "Zephiro Japan tour 2013". From 2014 they worked intensively in the studio to compose their second album upcoming in 2016. In this period they also published two videos filmed in Iceland. The first one is "Amelia" published in October 2015, in memory of the American aviatrix Amelia Earhart: <http://bit.ly/zephiroamelia> . The second video to be released is called "Crisalide", an ode to the cyclical nature of life in its various forms and transformations: <http://bit.ly/zephirocrisalide> .
